

Edina Fall into the Arts Festival Continues to Inspire the Edina Chamber of Commerce and Community

AS PRESIDENT OF the Edina Chamber of Commerce, one of the highlights of my year is welcoming our community to the Edina Fall into the Arts Festival. This year marks the festival's 22nd anniversary, and I couldn't be more excited to invite everyone to join us on September 12 and 13 at Centennial Lakes Park and the upper parking lot at 7601 France Avenue. Festival hours are 10 a.m.–6 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m.–5 p.m. on Sunday.

What began as a vision to celebrate art, and community has grown into one of the region's premier fine arts festivals. This year, we'll welcome approximately 245 talented artists representing 11 different categories of fine art. Whether you're drawn to painting, photography, ceramics, jewelry, sculpture, fiber, wood, glass, or mixed media, you'll discover incredible original artwork while having the opportunity to meet the artists behind each creation.

One of the things I love most about this festival is that it represents the very best of collaboration. It takes five organizations to work together to make this event successful. The Edina Chamber of Commerce administers the festival, coordinating the year-round planning, sponsorships, logistics, and engagement with our local business community. We're fortunate to partner with Centennial Lakes Park, the Edina Art Center, and Centennial Lakes Office Park, managed by Cushman & Wakefield, whose generosity in hosting the festival at 7601 France Avenue helps create an exceptional experience for artists and visitors alike.

Perhaps the most meaningful aspect of the festival is its purpose. The Edina Fall into the Arts Festival benefits the Edina First Responders Fund, which provides financial support for programs, equipment, and initiatives that enhance the work of the Edina Police and Fire Departments. Every sponsorship, artist booth, and food purchase helps generate funds that directly benefit our community.

As Edina Police Chief Todd Milburn shared, "The Edina First Responders Fund strengthens the important work we do in public safety by providing resources that go beyond our operating budget. The support generated through the Edina Fall into the Arts Festival allows us to invest in equipment, training, and community programs that ultimately make Edina a safer place to live, work, and visit. We're incredibly grateful to everyone who helps make this event such a success."

In addition to outstanding artwork, visitors can enjoy delicious offerings from 15 food vendors, making it easy to spend the day exploring, shopping, and relaxing in one of the Twin Cities' most beautiful outdoor settings.

I hope you'll make plans to join us for this special weekend. Whether you're an art collector, looking for a unique gift, supporting local artists, or simply enjoying time with family and friends, there's something for everyone. On behalf of the Edina Chamber of Commerce and our incredible partners, I invite you to experience the 22nd Annual Edina Fall into the Arts Festival. We look forward to welcoming you and celebrating another year of art, community, and giving together.

Building Something Special in Edina

AT EDWARD JONES, our purpose is simple: to partner for positive impact and help improve the lives of our clients, colleagues, and communities. That commitment has guided our firm for more than a century and continues to shape how we serve families, business owners, retirees, and future generations. We believe financial guidance works best when it is personal, relationship-driven, and rooted in trust. Our investment in local communities, charitable giving, volunteerism, and financial education reflects that belief every day.

We are excited to share the next chapter of that commitment with the development of a new flagship Edward Jones office in Edina. This office represents an evolution of the Edward Jones model, bringing together talented financial advisors and a dedicated client support team in a collaborative environment designed to deliver an exceptional client experience while preserving the personal relationships that have always defined our firm.
